World

(Authored by The United States for this volume)

1. The larger trends continue to be visible a global scale. Attacks on medical freedom, restrictions on the freedom of movement, election manipulation, and economic centralization. Most of the push to remove freedom is happening in democracies and republics. Globalist entities continue to seek control of organizations, politicians, and other entities in these countries to ensure their agenda is embedded. Part of that process is the use of conflict to cover for actions and distract the public. The war in Ukraine was used as a money laundering operation to fund elections efforts in the U.S. and work to ensure globalist minded politicians of both parties were elected. This is one example of many of how the global cabal is seeking success at achieving their goal. That goal is CONTROL. When they own the supply chains they can centralize power and gain the control they seek.

2. The world appears to be heading to economic collapse in many areas. In an economic collapse some countries could seek to take advantage of the opportunity the collapse provides. The Korean peninsula could once again be embroiled in conflict, China could cast their die and move on Taiwan, Iran and other countries in the region could attack Israel. Much like World War I, one incident could set the world ablaze. Somebody may once again be inclined to say that "The lamps are going out all over Europe, we shall not see them lit again in our life-time", as British Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey said just prior to the UK entering the war. Today that comment is fitting as energy shortages are self-imposed due to decades of adopting "green" policies. In times like this level-headed people can stave off the urge to respond in violence and lead. Politicians are rarely capable of this kind of leadership and Veterans will be ready. Conflict only benefits the extremists in the global cabal. Peace is to the benefit of all.

"I served in all commissioned ranks from second lieutenant to Major General. And during that period I spent most of my time being a high-class muscle man for Big Business, for Wall Street and for the bankers." Major General Smedley Butler, USMC, aka "The Fighting Quaker"

Canada

1. Free Speech.

Well known Canadian professor, psychologist and speaker Dr. Jordan Peterson is facing disciplinary action from the Ontario College of Psychologists. He has been informed he must take a compulsory social media training course. If not, he could lose his licence. None of the 12 complaints against him stem from his practice, rather they come from unidentified individuals who report they know someone who was "harmed" from reading or listening to his social media work. Some of the complaints were that he retweeted a statement from Opposition Leader Pierre Poilievre and that he had criticized Prime Minister Trudeau. Peterson has some 3.6 million followers on Twitter and millions more on other platforms. V2 Comment: The attack against Dr. Peterson from the College is likely less about him and more about sending a message. Doctors, psychologists, psychiatrists, and nurses are being told that they must remain silent and fall into line with government mandated medical and social policies or be barred from their professions. If they can silence someone with a high profile such as Dr. Peterson, they can silence anyone. <https://tinyurl.com/2zypm3es> and <https://tinyurl.com/3ez3bf7n>

Germany

1. Corona

The state continues to cleanse society of the Corona critics. In the first calendar week, a doctor was sentenced to 2 ½ years in prison and a fine of 28,000 euros because she had issued mask certificates for patients without anamnesis. It is clear that this is a political judgment after it has been scientifically proven that masks are harmful to health. In many federal states, masks are still compulsory e.g. on public transport or hospitals.

Corona is no longer the number one topic. Nevertheless, many events in the German healthcare system are repeatedly associated with Corona: new respiratory diseases, deficient healthcare system. A good sign: The Federal Republic of Germany is not getting rid of its vaccine doses. Is it perhaps because too much is known about side effects, diseases, and deaths?

2. Energy Crisis

In Germany in particular, the Ukraine war and the sanctions against Putin mean that the citizens are being held hostage by the government to an unimaginable extent. The government is not interested in investigating the blown Nord Stream 2 pipeline, although it should be clear to everyone that there is no reason for Russia to blow up the pipeline, as they simply must shut it down.

Just to do justice to the sanctions mania, the government flatters trading partners and ends up buying fuel that comes from Russia via detours.

The energy crisis is also fueling the energy transition proclaimed by the Federal Minister for Economics and Climate Protection. Citizens are being asked to pay double and triple and the rest of Europe is happy to be able to sell expensive nuclear power to Germany while German nuclear power plants fall victim to green policy.

3. New Year's dress rehearsal for migrant uprising

On New Year's Eve, there were massive attacks on merry-makers and police officers, especially in Berlin. The police were completely overwhelmed with the situation. It should be noted that the police are particularly good at harassing peaceful protesters who protest for their freedom. Unfortunately, other first responders were also attacked - and the reaction was feigned astonishment in the media and in politics. There are discussions about bans on firecrackers instead of discussions about the groups of perpetrators, which can be clearly seen in different videos online. Free journalist and film maker Imad Karim who was born in Lebanon says: "These are the ones who were applauded at train stations. These are the ones who came here begging for refuge and protection." According to Imad Karim, videos have been heard of young men speaking Syrian, Lebanese, and Arabic. The idioms used by the men in the videos show him that they already have combat experience and were not born in Germany. Welcome to the new normal with imported violence. This is clearly just a taste of the years to come if nothing changes.

4. Ukraine war and the role of the Bundeswehr

At the beginning of the new year, Germany took over the leadership of the NATO VJTF (Very High Readiness Joint Task Force). If the alliance had to send troops now, German soldiers would be on the front lines.

Whether this is a successful solution regarding the escalating Russia-Ukraine war remains questionable. Whether it was a total failure of 18 "Puma" infantry fighting vehicles, which became known only recently, a small number of operational Eurofighters or a lack of ammunition, is likely to indicate inadequate management in the Bundeswehr at highest level. When, in recent years, German obedience is met with incompetence at the top of the defense ministers, it is clear that the Bundeswehr's reputation will be damaged. Perhaps we should finally agree on a Secretary of Defense with expertise. This, by the way, applies to most ministerial resorts in the German government.

-----IN GERMAN---

Corona

Der Staat säubert nach wie vor die Corona-Kritiker aus der Gesellschaft. In der ersten Kalenderwoche wurde eine Ärztin zu 2 ½ Jahren Gefängnis und 28.000 Euro Strafe verurteilt, weil sie Patienten Maskenatteste auch ohne vorheriger Anamnese ausstellte. Dass das ein politisches Urteil ist dürfte jedem klar sein, nachdem wissenschaftlich belegt ist, dass Masken gesundheitsgefährdend sind.

Nach wie vor gibt es in vielen Bundesländern die Maskenpflicht in öffentlichen Verkehrsmitteln. Corona ist mittlerweile nicht mehr Thema Nummer eins. Dennoch werden viele Ereignisse in der deutschen Gesundheit immer wieder mit Corona in Verbindung gebracht: neue Atemwegserkrankungen, defizitäres Gesundheitswesen. Ein gutes Zeichen: die Bundesrepublik Deutschland wird ihre Impfstoffdosen nicht los. Liegt es vielleicht daran, dass zuviel über Nebenwirkungen, Krankheits- und Todesfälle bekannt wird?

Energie-Krise

Der Ukraine-Krieg und die Sanktionswut gegen Putin führt gerade in Deutschland zu einer Geislung der Bürger durch die Regierung in einem ungeahnten Ausmaß. An der Aufklärung der gesprengten Nordstream 2 Pipeline ist man nicht interessiert, obwohl jedem klar sein dürfte, dass es für Russland keinen Grund gibt, die Pipeline zu sprengen, da sie ja diese einfach nur abdrehen müssten.

Nur um dem Sanktionswahn gerecht zu werden, biedert man sich Handelspartnern an und kauft am Ende trotzdem Energiestoffe die über Umwege aus Russland kommen.

Die Energiekrise befeuert auch die von Bundesminister für Wirtschaft und Klimaschutz ausgerufene Energiewende. Der Bürger wird doppelt und dreifach zur Kasse gebeten und der Rest Europas freut sich teuer Atomstrom an Deutschland verkaufen zu dürfen, während deutsche Atomkraftwerke der grünen Politik zum Opfer fallen.

Silvesternacht Generalprobe für Migrantenaufstand

An Silvester gab es massive Übergriffe auf Feiernde und Polizisten vor allem in Berlin. Die Polizei war mit der Situation völlig überfordert. Es sei angemerkt, dass die Polizei ja besonders gut darin ist, friedliche Demonstranten zu schikanieren, die um Ihrer Freiheit wegen auf die Straße gehen. Leider wurden auch Krankenwagen und Feuerwehrautos angegriffen - und als Reaktion greift eine geheuchelte Verwunderung in den Medien und Politik um sich. Es gibt Diskussionen über Böllerverbote anstelle von Diskussionen über die Tätergruppen, die in Videos eindeutig zu erkennen sind. Der Journalist Imad Karim dazu: „Das sind jene, für die an Bahnhöfen geklatscht wurde. Das sind jene, die hierher gekommen sind und bettelnd Zuflucht und Schutz forderten“. Laut Imad Karim hörte man in Videos junge Männer die syrisch, libanesisch und arabisch sprechen. Die verwendeten Redewendungen der Männer in Videos zeigen ihm, dass diese bereits Kampferfahrung haben und nicht in Deutschland geboren sind. Willkommen in der neuen Normalität mit importierter Gewalt. Dies ist ganz klar nur ein Vorgeschmack auf die kommenden Jahre, wenn sich nichts ändert.

Ukraine-Krieg und die Rolle der Bundeswehr

Mit Beginn des neuen Jahres übernimmt Deutschland die Führung der schnellen Eingreiftruppe der NATO VJTF (Very High Readiness Joint Task Force). Falls das Bündnis jetzt Truppen losschicken müsste, stünden deutsche Soldaten und Soldatinnen an vorderster Front.

Ob das hinsichtlich des eskalierenden Russland/Ukraine-Krieg eine erfolgreiche Lösung ist, bleibt fraglich. Ob ein erst kürzlich bekannt gewordener Totalausfall von 18 Schützenpanzern „Puma“, eine geringe Stückzahl an einsatzfähiger Eurofighter oder Munitionsmangel weisen wohl auf ein unzureichendes Management in der Bundeswehr hin. Wenn deutscher Gehorsam auf Inkompetenz in der obersten Führung durch die Verteidigungsminister der letzten Jahre trifft, dann ist klar, dass dem Ansehen der deutschen Armee Schaden zugefügt wird. Vielleicht sollte man sich endlich auf einen Verteidigungsminister mit Sachkenntnis einigen. Das trifft übrigens auf die meisten Ministerresorts zu.

Netherlands

1. Megasize Army Base

Dutch Ministry of Defense have announced plans to build a megasize army base on preferred location Zeewolde, in the province Flevoland. This base is to house 7000 military personnel on a space of 500 hectares and for this to be realized 9 farmers will have to be displaced or their business discontinued. These farms provide an important contribution to the Dutch economy and have pioneered this reclaimed land which should now be passed on to the third generation. These businesses can't just be relocated as is suggested by Ministry of Defense. Also this soil is some of the most fertile in the whole province, and at the moment provides some much needed green zone in an already very urbanized and concrete country. The Dutch Kabinet is to make a decision midway 2023 and the plans will be executed over the next 10-15 years. Because government has labeled this decision as 'national interest' the decision can be made solely by national politics bypassing regional municipalities, however these regional municipalities must be heard to all surrounding inhabitants are being called upon by the farmers and other local business holders to speak out against these plans. From a military point of view it is questionable why they would center so much military objects with a shrinking size of Defense as a whole, and making it an easier target as opposed to spreading out military presence over more different locations.

2. War in Ukraine is Our War

Prime Minister Mark Rutte said on two press conferences on June 17th '22 and on September 22nd '22 in literal translation "this war in Ukraine is our war". He hereby transgresses Article 96 of our constitution by bypassing 'Staten Generaal' and making this statement. In an interview on NPO1 december 23rd '22 when he is asked if he is ready to state that the Netherlands are at war with Ukraine, he doesn't give a clear yes or no answer but applies gaslighting by saying what is said was "it is our battle" dismissing the whole thing because "when you say something like that it may have all kinds of legal implications". He continues to say there is no Article 5 NATO situation between NATO and Russia which would imply Netherlands should stay neutral, but he follow up by repeating that battle is our battle and we stand side by side with Ukraine which is why we provide much money, weapons and humanitarian aid for support. In Dutch Code of Law of Criminal Right it states that he who acts to risk the country to be involved in a war situation can be penalized with up to 10 years in jail and a monetary fine of the 5th category which is maximum €90.000.

New Zealand

It has been a relatively quiet couple of weeks here in NZ since Christmas, with parliament out for the summer holidays until Feb. They did manage to make one urgent decision regarding Covid which was to not require testing for travellers entering the country from China, in response to the significant outbreak they are experiencing since lifting their own Covid draconian lockdown restrictions a few weeks ago. Not requiring testing is a different approach than we have seen with many other Western Countries.

In other Covid news a local golf club has been ordered to pay lost wages and damages to a staff member who was fired because they chose to remain unvaccinated. The previous Director of Golf for the Whangamata Golf Club was awarded NZD$15,000 plus wages since their dismissal. The case seems to be about the misinterpretation of the government mandate of the time which affected food and beverage staff, which the employee was not. It is hoped that this opens the opportunity for similar cases for others who lost their jobs due to the mandates.

Finally, in Dec 22 the Labour Party controlled government pushed through the Water Services Entities Bill (also known as Three Waters) which will see the creation of new water entities who will be responsible for drinking, storm, and wastewater throughout the country. This was passionately opposed by many local councils as it removes responsibility from those councils and will see greater involvement and power by the New Zealand indigenous people (the Māori or iwi), many of whom will be unelected. Notionally the Bill is designed to retain water management within New Zealand and prevent privatization by future governments. However, many believe that this move is unnecessary and could lead to exacerbation of race related issues already happening within the country- division that the Bill is supposed to be directly addressing.

The Labour controlled government has made many significant changes to law and public services in the name of 'equity' since obtaining a majority position in parliament in 2020, moving towards a 'co-governance' model between Māori and New Zealand Europeans (or Pakeha).

The other major move in 2022 was the reformation of the health sector, which saw the nationalisation of the health system and the creation of a Māori Health authority "...to ensure our health system delivers improved outcomes for Māori, and to directly commission tailored health services for Māori". Some commentators believe that these moves will create further division amongst the people and may not result in increasing equity for most Maori. All co-governance related policies have received harsh criticism by opposition parties and much of the public during their implementation.

United Kingdom

1. Medical Freedom

The UK cemented a 10-year-partnership with Moderna in major boost for vaccines and research. Moderna is investing in mRNA research and development (R&D) in the UK and in building a state-of-the-art vaccine manufacturing centre with the ability to produce up to 250 million vaccines a year.

a. NHS patients will have access to a UK-made supply of COVID-19 jabs as well as cutting-edge vaccines developed for other respiratory diseases, such as flu and respiratory syncytial virus (RSV)

2. Nursing and ambulance strikes – January 2023

a. The Royal College of Nursing (RCN) has announced that strike action will take place at several NHS trusts across the country, including King's, on Wednesday 18 and Thursday 19 January. The strike action will impact some services run by the Trust. This includes services at King's College Hospital, Princess Royal University Hospital, Orpington Hospital, plus some services at Beckenham Beacon and Queen Mary's Hospital, Sidcup.

3. Military and Royal Family

a. A retired British Army colonel, famous for his inspirational speech on the eve of battle in Iraq, says the Duke of Sussex has "now turned against the other family, the military." In his new tell-all memoir, Prince Harry has disclosed that he killed 25 people in Afghanistan while serving as an Apache pilot in the British Army. Responding to the claim, Colonel Tim Collins told Forces News: "This is not how we behave in the Army; it's not how we think."

b. Col Collins completed three tours with the SAS and UK Special Forces. His rousing speech to British troops on the eve of the Iraq War in March 2003 made headlines worldwide and a copy of it was mounted in the Oval Office in the White House. 'He has badly let the side down. We don't do notches on the rifle butt. We never did.' The colonel has accused the Duke – who alongside the Duchess of Sussex stepped down as a senior Royal in 2020 – of pursuing "riches he does not need" and rejecting "family and comradely love that he badly needs."

c. He told Forces News: "Leonardo Da Vinci once said: 'He who wishes to be rich in a day will be hanged in a year'. "Prince Harry's latest revelations in his memoir 'Spare' are clearly a tragic money-making scam to fund the lifestyle he can't afford and someone else has chosen. Harry has now turned against the other family, the military, that once embraced him having trashed his birth family." "He has chosen a path that is alien to us in the UK and the Commonwealth, pursuing US identity politics and casting slurs or racism around where none exists in any manner comparable to the USA.

4. The continuing devolution of the Royal Family is a message to the world that they've embraced globalism and woke ideologies.

United States

1. 2023 Economic SOS

We believe that 2023 will begin to show signs of severe economic distress. This distress and potential depression is intentionally created by the Federal Reserve, a private bank, to help implement digital currency and usher in the beginning of the end for cash. This is to also bring in social credit scoring and be able to shut down your finances when you say or do something of which the government doesn't approve. The Federal Reserve likely has no intention of lowering interest rates any time soon, which will also lead to higher unemployment rates and the layoffs have already begun. It is also likely this will cause the housing market to crash and force many more Americans out of their homes. Those homes would then be purchased by major banks and developers at rock bottom prices.

A recent meeting of the FDIC in November of 2022 openly discussed concerns about the strength of our banking system. The bankers at this meeting expressed concern over public awareness and that they should be careful how they speak about it to avoid panic and mass bank runs where people will try to withdraw their savings.

What these people are not telling you is that they don't have the physical cash on hand to give to you, should too many people try to withdraw their money. At this point the banks would fail. This has already happened before in our history, and history seems to be repeating itself.

The same corrupt banking system pushed on the American people in 1913 with the passing and signing of the Federal Reserve Act caused the first Great Depression. This was due to their fractional reserve banking and debt based economic policies. In fact, these bankers openly admit to this. A little over 100 years later, nothing has changed, and we could be on the verge of economic disaster. Our politicians are no less responsible. When Americans are sent to faraway lands to fight a foreign war, where do you think the money comes from? The Federal Reserve of course. The government borrows, and the taxpayers pay. When we approve a $1.7 trillion-dollar omnibus bill and send $100 billion dollars to Ukraine in one year, where does that money come from? The Federal Reserve bank of course, and again the politicians approve it, the debt piles up, and the American taxpayers pay. When you want to know who really runs America, look no further than who controls the debt. This system is the single greatest robber of Americans of realizing prosperity and quality of life, it must be abolished. A private bank beyond reproach and accountability from both the Federal Government and American people is an abomination to our freedom and continues to oppress our people with infinite debt from cradle to grave. End the Fed!

Veterans want all to know that we are going to continue to uphold our oaths and defend freedom and liberty for everybody. We can no longer stand on the fence and watch as elections are stolen, children are groomed, people suffer under usury banking practices leading to indefinite debt, taxation without representation, border invasions, cultural Marxist propaganda destroying God and family, erasure of history, unprecedented violence and murder rates, intentional supply chain disruptions, and ever-increasing inflation. All those involved in these evil and treasonous deeds are known to us. If you are reading this, you are the resistance.

To the World Economic Forum, International Monetary Fund, Council on Foreign Relations, and all members in support of the villainy of the globalist cabal – YOU ARE ON NOTICE.

Scheduled publication dates for the year 2023. December 18, 2023 will be our annual summary.
